Dear Friends,

The past year or so has been one for the record books for Sixteenth Street. Our agency has grown in size, depth and sophistication.

Our Waukesha site has been open for two years and has served nearly 3,000 patients in that time. In response to the needs of the Waukesha community, we have added and will be expanding our behavioral health services there in addition to medical care. We know first-hand the value of coordinated medical care and mental health services, and our bi-lingual expertise makes us a perfect fit for the Waukesha community. See pages 3-4 for more information on Waukesha.

Our tradition of quality care continues, and we are proud to report that we passed our first unannounced Joint Commission accreditation inspection with flying colors. Sixteenth Street also received recognition as a Patient Centered Medical Home by the National Committee for Quality Assurance. You can read more about this recognition and our quality story on page 2 in the report from our Executive Vice-President, Dr. Julie Schuller.

Also, for the third year in a row, we are proud to be named one of the 100 Top Workplaces in southeastern Wisconsin by the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel. This designation is meaningful not only because it puts Sixteenth Street in the company of many of Wisconsin’s most prestigious private sector companies, but the designation is based on a survey of our employees. Their responses – and nearly 400 comments – not only put us on the Top Workplace list, but inform our operations, and help us to learn and grow as an agency.

Finally, the compassionate care provided by our staff on a day-to-day basis meant that 33,000 children and families had access to affordable, linguistically and culturally affordable health care last year. The mission that has guided our work for the past 45 years continues to make a difference in the lives of thousands.

We thank the leadership of our Board of Directors and the many community agencies, businesses, charitable donors and foundations who have provided support to make our important work possible.

Sincerely,

John J. Bartkowski, DrPH
President and CEO

Sixteenth Street Community Health Centers have a well deserved reputation as a valued community resource, with more than 300 employees who are passionate about our mission of caring for people who face economic, language or cultural barriers to receiving health care.

As you read this annual report, you’ll learn about outreach and education programs that support our patients, and broader initiatives – like AmeriCorps Community Service (pages 15-16), Healthy Choices (page 11), and the KK River Improvement initiative (page 20.) These programs reach beyond the four walls of our clinics to engage in community projects with other agencies, advocate for healthier options at local supermarkets to support our patients, and work with governmental partners to physically improve the environment of the neighborhood.

But the bedrock on which these community programs rest is our clinical excellence. More than 50 provider teams are led by board certified providers in internal medicine, family practice and pediatrics.

Sixteenth Street has been accredited by The Joint Commission since 2010, and passed our first unannounced Joint Commission audit in 2012. The Joint Commission is the nation’s oldest and largest standards-setting and accrediting body in health care. Earning the Gold Seal of Approval from The Joint Commission means that we follow quality improvement and state-of-the-art performance standards for agency leadership, information management, environment of care, human resources as well as other agency operations.

In 2013 we received recognition as a Level 3 Patient Centered Medical Home (PCMH) by the National Committee on Quality Assurance. This distinction means that we comply with standards that emphasize the use of systematic, patient-centered, coordinated care that supports access, communication and patient involvement.

Most recently we have joined the Wisconsin Collaborative for Healthcare Quality, (WCHQ.org) an organization that aggregates and publishes health care quality information. We have always known that the care that we provide for our patients is as good as care provided by other organizations, and we are pleased to be part of a forum that works to demonstrate that quality.

We hope that you are as proud as we are of the work we do. We invite you to visit our clinics at anytime, and we thank you for joining us in support of our mission to provide the best care possible to some of our most vulnerable patients.

Thank you,

Julie B. Schuller, MD, MPH, MBA, FACP
Executive Vice President and
Vice President Clinical Services
Our Waukesha Community Health center proudly opened its doors on August 27, 2012. The newly reconstructed and renovated 15,000 sq foot facility is beautifully equipped with 30 exams room, two primary check-in desks, and five color-coded practice areas. Born from a partnership between ProHealth Care and Sixteenth Street Community Health Centers, Waukesha Community Health Center has now brought quality primary health care to over 3,000 patients since its doors have opened. We have a culturally diverse patient population with 47% of the patients served being white, 40% are Hispanic and 8% are African American.

The clinic offers comprehensive services in Family Practice, OB services, Behavioral Health, Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse (AODA), Social Services and Intoxicated Driver Intervention. Behavioral Health Services were added in response to a community need. In the last year we have had 300 hundred patients receiving Behavioral Health or AODA services alone. Dr. Julie Schuller noted that future plans include an increased collaboration with the Waukesha Family Residency Program, a further expansion in the capacity to care for mental health and AODA clients and the initiation of OB services. When asked about Waukesha Community Health Center, a long-time and current patient with diabetes commented, “I knew I needed to find a place to go, and the quality of care I received at the health center is beyond what I have ever seen.”

Waukesha Community Health Center hosted a Health Fair bringing the community together to promote health in a fun and interactive environment!
Meet Dr. Hopper, M.D.
The youngest of six kids, Dr. Kate Hopper grew up on a farm near a small town in Iowa with a strong sense of caring and a love for science. Being from a big family they used to call Kate her father and mother’s “retirement fund,” joking that she would have to take care of them when they were older. Her mother and father both lost battles with cancer, but the idea of being the family caretaker – a family physician – was instilled in Kate for good. With her own family’s medical struggles Kate had lots of exposure to the healthcare field and realized how little some people understand about their health. She became a family doctor to be the true meaning of the word – a teacher. She believes that having a relationship with patients is the best way to educate them, helping them to buy into the importance of their health.

In addition to her family practice services Dr. Hopper also offers OB services, she expressed that “walking women through pregnancy and delivering babies brings me the greatest joy in my career, especially now that I have a child of my own.” She is excited about being the physician that her OB patients can trust during such a life-changing time.

Having done her residency in Waukesha, Dr. Hopper is looking forward to being back in the community where she learned to be a physician and working side by side with some of the great family physicians and specialists who trained her. She is excited to be in the Community Health Center environment where she can see patients that really need her help and are very appreciative of the care they receive. We are equally excited to have her at Waukesha Community Health Center and look forward working with another great physician!

Dr. Román is a loved, bilingual pediatrician at our Waukesha location.
BEHAVIORAL HEALTH

In the last year over 3,000 people were able to receive counseling at 17,400 individual appointments. Our highly qualified staff works with other Sixteenth Street programs, such as the Parenting Resource Center and Social Services, to provide a multi-disciplinary team effort to promote family wellness. These collaborations and efforts give the support and counseling needed to Sixteenth Street patients who suffer from depression, stress, emotional issues, and other mental health concerns.

The Behavioral Health team maintains open appointment slots on their calendars so that medical teams can immediately refer patients suffering from depression, anxiety, as well as other mental health conditions to them for an assessment. A plan of care is established and the appropriate referrals are made to ensure patient care is coordinated.

Psychiatrists, psychologists and family therapists provide a full range of out-patient mental health services in both Spanish and English.

“It is so important to reach a patient right away, to let them know that help is available – to give them hope. Bridging the gap between mental health and physical health leads to improved patient care and quality of life.”

– Maria E. Guardiola, MS, LPC-IT
In a true execution of the embedding model Psychotherapist Gabriela Dieguez, LCSW is often called into the exam room of her husband, Francisco Enriquez, MD, to perform a rapid assessment integrating medical and mental health services.
MEDICAL

Mizrain Medina is a long time patient of Dr. Margie Dunn at Sixteenth Street Community Health Centers. It has not been an easy road but with Dr. Dunn by his side Mizrain has had the strength and determination to fight through health problems that would make most of us give up in despair.

He first saw Dr. Dunn 14 years ago for high blood pressure. Kidney failure was discovered and he started on dialysis. Shortly afterwards, chest pain signaled coronary artery disease leading to open heart surgery. Mizrain remembers at that point seeing death in the face, inviting him to succumb. He responded with a strong “no – not yet.” He fought through that procedure successfully only to be faced with another struggle a few years later when he was diagnosed with an aggressive form of lymphoma which had already spread to the rest of his body. Still refusing to quit, Mizrain underwent chemotherapy 24 hours per day, only stopping to receive his dialysis treatments three times a week for four hours a day. When talking about those impossibly hard times, he mentions Dr. Dunn, his other doctors, and his daughter, Diosnellie who were with him every day, supporting him and most of all – fighting for him.

Mizrain now has his certificate for beating his cancer, a diploma from graduating from radiation treatment. When asked how he stays so motivated, he responded that he awakens every morning asking God for a good day; but he also wakes up each day intent to do everything he can do to make it a good day. He remains committed to his recovery and committed to life.

He commented, “Now I can do everything, I can read, I can ride my bike, I can cook – I can do everything. I want to keep recovering and getting better and live the life God gave me. I want to make myself an example for others.” It is apparent that Mizrain has done just that – Dr. Dunn calls him her inspiration. Everyone’s life he touches is equally inspired. Mizrain Medina continues to equally inspired. Mizrain Medina continues to see Dr. Dunn and looks forward to many more days under her care.
Dr. Kathy Hernandez was recognized for her work with transgender patients.

Our primary healthcare services include family practice, internal medicine, behavioral health, pediatrics, and women’s wellness. Sixteenth Street is proud of our multi-cultural bilingual staff of providers whose reputation for quality, compassion, and innovation is unmatched elsewhere. This past year Sixteenth Street doctors Margie Dunn and Kathy Hernandez were recognized by the Wisconsin Medical Society Foundation as “Superheroes of Medicine!”

Dr. Margie Dunn has a special passion for her work with the elderly.
CHRONIC CONDITIONS HEALTH EDUCATION

DIABETES:

Of the 3,000 patients diagnosed with diabetes, 99% of these patients have received diabetes self-management education at Sixteenth Street Community Health Centers. With a strong individual focus, this comprehensive self-management approach educates patients, their families and the community with tools and resources that empower them to maintain healthier, more productive lifestyles. Education includes the disease process, nutrition, medications, blood sugar monitoring, complications, goal setting and psychosocial adjustment. Exercise classes, support groups, community events and specialty care are offered to support all patients to successfully self-manage their diabetes. 70% of our patients have HbA1c levels less than or equal to 9% indicating that their diabetes is being well controlled.

The Chronic Conditions Health Education team offers innovative activities such as Zumba, Walking Groups, Healthy Pregnancy Exercise classes and Diabetes Prevention classes to engage and encourage patients toward reducing their risk for diabetes. They also provide unique opportunities such as the maintenance of a community garden to connect families, neighborhoods and community organizations around healthy living activities.

“I am stronger than diabetes.”
Community Health Workers – patients who want to give back to the health center and the community by working to expand the reach of our programming to their neighborhoods – are an integral part of the Chronic Conditions Health Education team organizing activities and events to have a physical presence in the community and allow valuable cross collaboration between community initiatives.

ASTHMA:
There are approximately 2,700 patients diagnosed with Asthma at Sixteenth Street Community Health Centers. 85% of children have been given an individualized Asthma Action Plan guiding their at home behavior and medication management, along with avoiding exacerbations. Successful asthma management relies on medical care, proper use of medication and patient awareness of how their body functions and responds to various stresses. Coordination of clinical services, home visits and group and patient education help our patients self-manage their asthma.
HEALTHY CHOICES/
ELECCIONES SALUDABLES

Through family education and community advocacy, Healthy Choices strives to improve the home and neighborhood environment for adults and children in Milwaukee’s Southside, so they can enjoy a healthier life. Fifty one families enrolled in Healthy Choice’s three month family education program this past year. The program teaches practical classes in nutrition, healthy cooking, physical activity and stress management. 78% of adults and 65% of children reported a reduction in fast food intake and over 70% of both children and adults reported an increase in vegetable consumption and physical activity. 100% of adults noted that the program enhanced their community connection, the other pillar of Healthy Choices.

Healthy Choices’ Community Advocacy Program formed a community group, Latinos Por la Salud, to create and maintain a healthy community, disseminate wellness information and promote better access to healthy foods and physical activity. They have planned and led large events such as South Side Bicycle Day which had more than 600 participants. The group also organized weekly exercise activities such as walking groups and fought for and succeeded in obtaining healthier food options – such as whole grain breads and baked rather than fried chips – at grocery stores in the neighborhood.

“My experience was fantastic because there aren’t other programs that are dedicated to the health of Hispanics that include the entire family. Thanks to this, we have all learned the same and it’s easier to make healthy decisions as a family... it helps you see that obesity is a problem for everyone and it makes you feel like we can all work together for a solution.”

– Estela Martinez
500 helmets and 150 bikes were given away to local children and families.
SOCIAL SERVICES

With a staff of four MSWs (Masters in Social Work) in addition to support staff shared between sites, the Sixteenth Street Community Health Centers provide supportive social services to assist both patients and other community members with crisis intervention, resource referral, advocacy in areas of pregnancy, children/youth, elders, special needs, family violence, homelessness and other barriers our patients confront in their path. In just a three month period our staff made 6,000 follow-up phone calls, conducted 2,000 appointments and received in excess of 3,500 walk-ins. The uniqueness and breadth of our program is reflected in the high rate of walk-ins, which is a result of our efforts to provide open access and comprehensive services while engendering trust within our community.

We have a team of eight eligibility workers who provide enrollment assistance to the community and handle department intake. We also house a Certified Application Counselor (CAC) who can assist active patients with Affordable Care Act.

Ana Stier, a trilingual MSW social worker at Sixteenth Street Community Health Centers, is a hero in the eyes of her patients and co-workers for the diligence and protection she shows each patient, providing them with safety and resources despite the most trying of situations.
Nine Certified Nurse Midwives, two peri-natal case managers, Family Practice Physicians and two outreach workers collaborated with Columbia St. Mary’s Milwaukee Hospitals to facilitate the birth of over 700 babies in the last year. Only 13% of the deliveries were done by Cesarean, a rate that is 20% less than the national average, and an astoundingly low 6% were delivered with a low birth rate. 80% of women who had a previous Cesarean were able to have a successful vaginal birth warranting Sixteenth Street a national recognition by the American College of Nurse-Midwives for excellent outcomes.

The Women’s Wellness department at Sixteenth Street is further renowned for its adoption of Centering Pregnancy, a model of group care that combines education, support, and health care assessment facilitated by a credentialed midwife and their medical assistants. Certified by the Centering Health Care Institute, 168 women have attended the 10 week program in 2013.

Current patient Alma noted, “there is a lot of information and you realize that we all think differently and we can share, talk, help fight against myths and support each other.” (pictured below)

Alma López is expecting her fourth boy this November! She has been with Sixteenth Street for her last two pregnancies and couldn’t be happier with the care she receives here.
AMERICORPS

Many of the Sixteenth Street Community Health Centers’ programs are enhanced by the “above and beyond” work AmeriCorps Community Health Corps members provide each year in community service and outreach. The members were embedded in programs that supplement patient care such as Medication Assistance, Women’s Wellness, Clinical interpreting and translation, Environmental Health, WIC, Healthy Choices, and Chronic Conditions. They provided health information to over 4,000 individuals and helped with over 150 enrollments. Working closely with children considered at risk for childhood obesity, they had over 100 nutrition education encounters and 410 physical activity encounters with more than 100 children.

Elizabeth Kellom dedicated her time as a translator and interpreter. She has a special interest in genetic counseling and was able to do an in-service on the topic during her time at Sixteenth Street. She enjoyed her experience so much she decided to do a second year of service which started this past September.
Our members also played a part in the surrounding communities by organizing and hosting service projects such as the Child’s Play event in honor of Martin Luther King Day and Girls on the Run, a mentoring and exercise program for girls. In the community more than 400 volunteers who were recruited or directed by AmeriCorps members provided over 1,000 hours of service. Previous member Molly Malloy noted that as a result of her AmeriCorps service at Sixteenth Street, “my attitude, which is that dedicated community service can make a real difference, has been confirmed.”

The daughter of one of our valued Sixteenth Street nurses, Yamileth Campos, was a participant in the program, she noted “After 3 years of Margarita’s joining Girls on the Run I noticed my daughter change from a shy, quiet girl to a secure, athletic preteen; Girls on the Run helps our daughters to develop not only physically but mentally; developing a sense of self-worth. I will and have recommended the program to all the preteen moms that I know.”
The HIV Department at the Sixteenth Street Community Health Centers is committed to providing quality prevention and medical services to residents of Milwaukee and surrounding areas, employing the CDC National Model: Prevent – Test – Link – Treat. We also strive to retain in care, our patients living with HIV/AIDS to improve their quality of life and prevent new infections. In the 2013 calendar year, 1099 community members were tested and those with positive results were placed into care.

Partially funded by grants from the federal Ryan White program and the CDC, the HIV program provided care and treatment for 187 People Living With HIV/AIDS (PLWHA) in the last year. Early and comprehensive treatment is critical in controlling the amount of virus circulating in the bloodstream and the goal is to reach the point where the viral load is undetectable. This prevents progression of the disease and significantly reduces the chances of the patient transmitting the virus to someone else. In 2013 over 70% of our HIV patients had undetectable viral loads. This means over 130 people are less likely to transmit the HIV virus to their sexual partners. The use of condoms is still encouraged among those who have Undetectable HIV Viral Loads.
Having started with a few volunteers and donated toys, our Child Enrichment Program, located in our Parenting Resource Center, is now celebrating its 10 year anniversary as a vital service here at Sixteenth Street. Apart from offering an array of classes from childhood growth and development to proper car seat usage, the center prides itself on the education, support, and the model of parenting skills it provides at every visit. In the past year in over 4,500 visits, 1,400 children received a safe, enriching experience while their parents were able to see their therapist or physician in a setting that provides productive appointments for both the patients and providers. This service has also made a significant difference in providing parenting assistance on a walk-in basis and reaching many parents who otherwise would not attend class.

As the largest Storks Nest in the Wisconsin Chapter of the March of Dimes the center fundraised over $2,100 through a volunteer activity at the Learning Shop to spend on infant toys. Our site is the only Storks Nest to provide infant toys that promote early brain development.

Our parenting class gives families the opportunity to ask questions and feel supported in their endeavors as parents at all stages.
Sixteenth Street is home to the largest single WIC site in the state providing services to a continuous caseload of 7,000. This year WIC celebrated its 40th Anniversary of service with a publicized Walk with the Mayor and birthday cake for all the participants. The implementation of a WIC Farmers Market program where participants can spend their WIC vouchers at local farmers markets has helped both the community’s farmers and also the WIC participants.

Willow, a hands-on puppet show to introduce fruits, vegetables and recipes to children – has come to WIC though a PepsiCo grant. As one of the first to actually carry out the program, Sixteenth Street’s WIC staff and volunteers are fully trained by the creators and embrace the fun and innovative way to help kids explore, understand, and like healthy food. Since the grant was issued 407 kids have seen and participated in a Willow “show.”

Through Willow’s stories, poetry, and hands on activities children get to learn about and experiment with healthy foods.
The Department of Environmental Health’s sustainable development program continues to make drastic strides in the improvement of our patients’ community through the Kinnickinnic (KK) River Corridor Initiative. The Initiative was a 2014 Milwaukee Awards for Neighborhood Development Innovation (MANDI) finalist in the PNC Trailblazer category. The KK River Trail, a new paved trail stretching almost 2.5 miles along natural portions of the Kinnickinnic River was lined with beautifully constructed trail-heads this past June and was home to walking, biking and running clubs. Sixteenth Street is focused on revitalizing Pulaski Park, a unique green space in the densely urbanized KK River Corridor, to make it a neighborhood destination that meets community needs and manages storm water to prevent flooding and pollution. Five little free libraries were decorated by residents and installed in the neighborhood to promote literacy of all ages and encourage neighborhood connectedness. The KK River Neighbors in Action is the grassroots community connector and force behind these projects, facilitating communication, action and sustainable positive change in the KK River neighborhood.

These two trail enhancements were chosen by the community. The art pillars were designed by local youth in a free neighborhood after school program.
Sixteenth Street Community Health Centers received a grant through the Healthier Wisconsin Partnership Program for the Growing Healthy Soil for Healthy Communities project in an effort to better understand lead exposure risks associated with urban agricultural activities. Sixteenth Street is the lead partner in collaboration with the Medical College of WI, Walnut Way Conservation Corp and UW Madison’s Department of Soil Science. Over the next five years the primary objectives are to determine best practices for safe gardening, improve community-wide environmental health literacy, and increase awareness and understanding of current policies while working towards policy formation.

In the last year the Community Lead Outreach Program worked with over 1,300 families and admitted 204 new individuals to the program. Our team performed more than 700 home visits to educate families about lead and identify lead hazards in the home. In these visits 372 lead screening tests were administered to children in their own homes.

Local kids enjoy the free annual summer camp in the revitalized Pulaski Park.
